

Doral, May 5th 2011

Press information

Warning to all LanPro's customers

LanPro is aware that counterfeit product clones are being manufactured in Asia and are being offered to companies in Europe and the South America. We strongly recommend that you buy from authorized dealers only.

Suppliers dealing with counterfeit products are willing to offer them at prices that are lower than legitimate competitors can match, therefore the low prices are appealing to OEMs, especially to distributors because of price pressure. The drawback is that the parts may not function as well as they should since they are not likely to have been tested to industry standards and don't comply with our specifications. For example, if a counterfeit component overheats it will cease to work and even could destroy the application.

Some LanPro products being cloned are network cable, some tools and connector related products series. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish clones from genuine LanPro products at a first glance. Some counterfeiters have named them as our series and have even copied the catalogue pages showing none or little respect for international patents and regulations.

LanPro has conducted some electrical and mechanical tests on clones showing low performance which represents a high risk of product failure. Please be aware that LanPro products are covered by patents. LanPro name and logo are also trademarked and registered. There even are web pages totally counterfeit with our info and photos.

Dear customers, please be sure to purchase from an AUTHORIZED DISTRIBUTION CHANNEL.

For more information please contact:

acc@lanpro.us

or call directly to US office at +1 305 640 0733.

LanPro™ is a member of One Network Alliance Group of Companies.

LanPro™ products are made in one of the following countries: USA, Canada, China, Taiwan, Thailand and Korea. The exact country of origin is unknown.

LanPro™, The natural choice in networking and LanProfessional are US registered brands.

LanPro Inc.

1880 NW 93rd Avenue
Doral, Florida 33172, USA
Phone: 305 640 0733
email: sales@lanpro.com